First Party of Community Service Makes Big Success Here

MANY INTRODUCTIONS

First of Series to Be Staged Shows Unique Entertainment

The spirit of play was injected into a group of sixty representatives of various church and school organizations and clubs, who responded to an invitation to attend the first Community party for grown-ups, held Monday night in the girls' gymnasium of Glendale Union high school, and which also constituted the first of a series of six lessons of an institute for the training of volunteer leaders in social and physical recreation, under the direction of Miss Roberta

As the first step towards getting the people acquainted, each perwas tagged with badges of red, white and blue, on which his or her name was written. This was followed by a group of getacquainted games, folk games, alphabet games, contests, etc. A very interesting contest was that of guessing the source of familiar quotations taken either from the Bible or Shakespeare. New grand march figures, lively games and quiet games were all demonstrated and greatly enjoyed by young and middle aged folks alike.

Miss Winans, who represents National Community Service, has been sent to Glendale as recreation director. She will charge of institute lessons in the girls' gymnasium of the high chool every Monday and Friday night from 7:30 o'clock until 9, covering a period of three weeks. This is one of the sections of a ity-wide program of activities anned by Community Service. Capt. T. D. Watson, chairman of the social and physical recreation committee, and V. M. Hollister, president of the chamber of comrce and of Glendale Community Service, spoke briefly on the work being done in Glendale and urged that all organizations of the city be represented at the next institute meeting.

A meeting of representatives from all choral and musical organizations of Glendale will take place tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium, under the direction of Alexander Stewart Community Service Music organiz er of the Pacific Coast, when plans will be inaugurated for the Christmas carol campaign, which will supplement the big Community Service Christmas celebration in Glendale, being headed by the Kiwanis club.

EIGHT MEMBERS ARE INITIATED BY

Eight members of Glendale Elks lodge were initiated on Monday night at their regular meeting, the work being put on by the officers of the Long Beach lodge. Five nembers were initiated for the Long Beach lodge, one member for Ottawa, Kansas, and one for Anacortes, Washington lodge. Those initiated for Glendale

E. Howell, W. H. Grassell, H. A. Thompson and Frank L. Jackson. Following the initiation several speeches were given and Judge Thomas of Los Angeles spoke along the lines of the fraternity and what they are accomplishing. The usual entertainment or vaudeville was enjoyed and the meeting closed with one of John Roman's delicious buffet luncheons.

City Council Employs J. B Lippincott to Investigate

Sewer Situation

Contracts to Report on Treatment at Local Plant and Disposal

REPORT IN TWO WEEKS

At its special meeting Monday night the Glendale city council voted to employ J. B. Lippincott, reputed to be one of the most capable sanitary engineers in the western part of this country, to investigate thoroughly the sewage proposition of Glendale and to bring in a constructive report as to how, where, and when said proposed system should be establish ed and also to make definite suggestions as to one or more treatment plants, if such are found to be necessary. The report will be completed, if possible, within two weeks, and the cost of the service to the city will be $3,000.

The motion to employ Mr. Lippincott to do this work was made by Councilman Stephenson, and when the vote was taken all members voted "aye" with the exception of Councilman Davis, who registered a negative vote.

Following is the contract which the council voted to enter into with Engineer Lippincott:

WHICH KIND OF A FROG

BY JOHN H. GERRIE Civic Development Expert

To be a big frog in a little puddle or a little frog in a big puddle is the question that suddenly has bobbed up before Glendale the glorious,

Whether Glendale shall continue her proud forward movement as the fastest growing city in the world with the plaudits of the multitude ringing in her ears or whether Glendale shall consent to be > peacefully absorbed by a greedy metropolis next door, thereby losing her identity and her prestige forever and ever—that is the great question to be decided quickly, emphatically and definitely. Glendale having come thus far in > her journey' without help or counsel from her larger neighbor, working out her own problems as rapidly as they have arisen, gaining momentum in her growth from her own individual efforts is suddenly swooped down upon by a vulture of population with the honeyed

"Come in with us and share our prosperity." And what is that prosperity in which Glendale is invited to share? Here are two of its ingredients:

1—The burdens of a great city already top-heavy with population that has come faster than facilities for

2-A bonded indebtedness of $87,000,000 under which that city is staggering, in addition to the modest indebtedness already carried without effort by this splendid little community.

As reward for helping to pack some of the load under which the greater city is groaning, Glendale, the marvelous, will be shorn of all the glory achieved independently and given a place in the corner as part of the bulky metropolis of the west. Glendale's energy and speed thenceforth will be the energy and speed of Los Angeles but when she wants any favor like the repair of pavement on the Verdugo road or a new lamp post on Wilson avenue she must go, hat in hand, to the council of the greater city and await her turn with 57 other districts or subdivisions for any crumbs that may be left after the foster-parent has gorged herself with the contributions of her foster family.

It's a generous invitation to come in and share prosperity which in this case means responsibility and liability. The bait of sewage disposal, assured water supply, cheaper transportation may look tempting to some of the fish over which it hangs, but the hand that holds the rod is skilled in landing the game. The clever subterfuge that demand for annexation comes from within the municipality that would be swallowed at a gulp in itself ought to be sufficient warning to real Glendalians of the brutish rapacity of the giant that already is greedily preparing to do the swallowing.

The suddenness and completeness of the propaganda that has burst forth in the interests of the population hungering metropolis is evidence of a carefully prepared scheme to stampede the fairest little city on the continent into the jaws of the municipal monster. .But the alertness of those citizens who love Glendale for what they have made it and are going to make it, may be depended upon to frustrate the organized campaign to drive this splendid gate city into the maw of Los Angeles.

It is better to be a big frog in a little puddle than a little frog in a big puddle, particularly when the big puddle means increased liabilities and $87,000,000 indebtedness already contracted.

COMES AS A SURPRISE

OF LABOR

The Glendale Credit Association was honored at its noon luncheon Monday by the Hon. James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, who delivered a short address before the argest number that has attended the luncheon since the organization was formed.

Mr. Davis was introduced by Secretary F. H. Pilling. After paying his respects to the splendid spirit of enterprise and progress seen on all sides, he said: "I can understand why your city s the fastest growing city in America. The spirit of enterprise shown on every hand certainly tells he story. All you need to know about a man is whether or not he is interested in his work. If he is a school which proved this very conclusively. Well do I remember the opinion expressed at that time: Let the young fellow handle it, he has enthusiasm and he has the energy, he is in love with the work, and will see that every cent is paid back.' And after all, this is about all there is to credit. You must weigh a man to a great extent by his energy and interest in what ne is doing." Mr. Davis referred to the enterprise of Mr. Titus, who wants to establish his cake making plant in Glendale, and paid Mr. Titus a compliment for his energy and en-

I entered a protest against cutting wages, and I shall always in the laborers' hire. If you want to see a dead community visit the one that pays everything out dividends and nothing for labor. Labor is the backbone of business and when its earning capacity is destroyed, business is ruined.

"Wales is next to the United States in paying living wages, and the country is prosperous. It is all wrong to talk of beating the workcent wages if you want to get the most efficient men-wages that will and educate their children. Give the laborer the things that are much toward bringing about desirable conditions in the country.

"I am for the protection of the citrus industry as much as any other industry. Our laborers in the citrus fields cannot live like the people of Italy. We must get more for our fruit and hold up our standard of living. I am glad to see Californians taking such an interest in the problem of the labor ing man, and that is one of the reasons why there is such a large influx of people to this country. "There are, however, things that should be changed. At the present time the location of another. Moose school is under consideration. Our school would likely be located in California if your tax system would permit us to do so. We cannot bring a five million dollar plant to California and pay taxes on that amount when our work is purely of a charitable nature. We have a big school in Illinois and we would like to establish the next school in California.

"There are close to one and a half million children of school age working and out of school. The percent I am glad to say is very small in California, but there is an urgent need for better laws and opportunities for children and the duty of providing these falls upon There is no greater work we could do than to help the children Man owes no higher duty to God

"The countries that pay the low est wages have the lowest standard of living and education, and we want to keep our heads straight forward and never allow our nation to go backward. I am glad California takes such an interest in schools. They are the best as the plan and put it into effect in sets of a community."

"The reason you do not have co-operation in Glendale is because many of your merchants do not buy at home," said the speaker.

Dear Friends and Buddies:

The members of the crew of this vessel would like to take this means of expressing our most hearty appreciation of the Wonderful hospitality extended us as guests of the American Legion and the city of Glendale on Armistice day, November the 11th.

The city of Glendale is the talk of the old "Pigiron" and as deep-sea sailormen we have made quite a few ports on this coast but never have we met with mothers who could cook like the mothers of Glendale. Truly, "the way to the heart is through the stomach." Long will we remember this part or the day's program.

And to top off the end of a perfect day several nifty dances were staged much to the Gobs' delight, all of the men of the flet that were present being treated to a royal time, in which old King Neptune of the Royal Shellbacks could not have improved upon himself. Our only regret is that Glendale is not a seaport in which the doughty old "Pigiron" could drop her "mudhooks" for more frequent visits. Which reminds us, why could not Los Angeles take a tip from Glendale? Come on, Glendale, we're with you.

CENSURING THE JURY

Apparently a verdict of murder in the first degree is possible in the California courts only on conditions that rarely prevail. The character of the crime, which may have been to the utmost atrocious and deliberate, is not sufficient to cause the bringing in of such a verdict. If the defendant is able to command the services of a suave and cunning lawyer, the element of justice is eliminated.

The trial becomes a contest of wits. The deed alleged, the law relating to the deed, lose all effect. Results hinge upon a deftly contrived tremulo in the voice of the pleading attorney; upon the wholly extraneous subject of insanity; upon the word of "experts" ready to take either side; upon aspersions hurled against witnesses, who are made to suffer more indignity than the person at bar.

Considering the circumstances connected with the selection of a jury, the wonder is not that mistakes are so frequent, but that blundering inefficiency is not the invariable rule. For example, the Phillips jury agreed that the woman was guilty of murder in the second degree. In public opinion a crime is possible to be perpetrated. Doubtless the she was guilty of murder in the first degree, if such verdict was a compromise. No twelve persons of average jury intelligence could be imagined as having united in the belief expressed in the verdict.

Yet it may be that to censure this jury, or any other jury, is doing its members an unkindness. They enter upon their duties sadly handicapped. They have to deny the advance formation of opinion concerning matters about which every thinking person in the community has formed an opinion. They are greatly confused by a mass of irrelevant Dr. Frank Crane evidence. It must puzzle them to hear testimony denounced as perjury by one side, and exalted as the essence of truth by the other. They cannot be expected to read character, to know who among may accept fully what Dr. Steinmetz said, that witnesses or counsel ahe lying. So, after retiring, witnesses or counsel ahe lying. So, after retiring, science is about what we know and religion is they seem to strike a sort of average, and let it go about what we believe.

It is only the half-baked mind that rejects all at that. The extremely severe and the extremely lenient, meet on middle ground. The decision thus reached passes for justice, and perhaps sometimes

VALUE OF PUBLICITY

The director of the Chicago Crime Commission says that publicity is the surest method of reducing crime. He was talking to the students of a class urnalism when he made the statement. It is his belief that if papers were to decide that crime should be cut 50 per cent by next May, such result would follow. To accomplish the reform they must insist that criminals be apprehended, prosecutions be vigorous, judges firm, and juries honest. Finally, they must demand that penalties when imposed shall be executed. "Efforts to defeat justice cannot withstand the searchlight of newspaper publicity,"

Newspapers expose crime whenever they get the chance. Their cry for enforcement of the law is constant. They denounce fearlessly the inadequacy of methods of dealing with evil-doers of every class. The fact will have to be admitted by thoughtful observers that all this fails to accomplish much. The papers of Chicago, for example, withhold approval from the system that permits "Big Tim" Murphy to commit any crime he pleases, and go unpunished. There has been full exploitation of the system by which murderer after murderer goes free, or at least escapes conviction, yet the series of trials, so useless as to almost he farcical, goes on with scarcely a break in continuity.

The papers might bring about a great reformation, but they have failed to do it. A possible reason is that the news policy of most metropolitan papers is distin t from the editorial policy. paper could be seeme to defend a seminal. paper could be induced to take up a cause that it deemed wrong. Papers uniformly protest at the slow and ineffective action of the courts. They bewail the frequent escapes of persons known to be guilty. They protest against the stupidity of jurors. e trickery of rogue lawyers. But no great resulting change dawns upon the vision. While the papers are doing these things, they are erecting male and female criminals to the plane of heroism They are getting interviews from convicted prisoners, eporters supplying both words and ideas, and the interviews are nothing but pleas in justifica-tion, and bids for sympathy. A class of writers known as sob sisters haunt courtroom and jail, dealing out lachrymose pathos and buncombe for the benefit of the accused. "Heart interest" stuff, all rot. And it is the sort of dope that gets into and poisons the public mind, being reflected in the courts.

The Chicago speaker had in his thoughts, ideal conditions that do not prevail in journalism. They might prevail, happily the students of journalism may be able some day to promote them; but they

NO COUNTRY FOR REDS

Between laboring men alert in protection of their rights, and the nomadic reds of the I. W. W., there is a distinction so wide that it could not fail of general recognition. Men, who desire to work at sides, either is incorrect for the reason you have their trades, or at tasks fitted for the unskilled, do given. However, if you consider that a house has not ride about the country as vagrants, seeking to create trouble. The working man and the pro-prietor of the business or industry that employs him, have many interests in common. They are jointly concerned in promoting prosperity for in this they share. Wherever industrial progress is being made, the profits must benefit the whole community. There is no marked lack of employment now. The able-bodied person who is idle, is idle from choice. The deliberately idle constitute a burden to society. They do not have right to a voice in the conduct of economic affairs. Producing nothing, they are worth nothing. Yet it is the voice of the slothful that rises loudest in complaint. He does not earn bread, but he wants his bread brought to him, well buttered. When he observes a dispute between employer and employee, he precipitates his unwhole-some presence into it. He does not do this with any good purpose. He does it on the theory that, because of intrinsic demerit, he is down and out, the whole system is wrong, and must be overturned. This operation he conceives would change his lowly position to one at the top. His idea of betterment would be to enjoy all that industry enjoys, to reap the rewards of effort, but without for an instant being industrious, or ever putting forth an effort. Unable to build up, he thinks he discerns a chance of happiness in destroying that which others have erected. His worst fault lies in his low mentality. He has nothing with which to think. He becomes an agitator because his real desire is to be a loafer. Therefore, instead of being merely a burden and a nuisance, he becomes a recognizable danger. For this reason the red radical, the professional sluggard, is being chased out of California. The plan does not bespeak altruism, but manifests the spirit of self-defense. If he is chased out, he must go somewhere, and thus some neighbor has to take up the problem.

RELIGION AND SCIENCE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Dr. Steinmetz, consulting engineer of the General Electric company, who is generally known as the electrical wizard, explained in a speech at a church the other day the difference between religion and science.

Religion, he declared, may be defined as dealing with such topics as God, immortality, infinity, etc., all of which lie outside of the realm of sense perceptions, while science deals with the conclusions derived by the laws of logic from our sense perceptions. He held that there is no necessary conflict between science and religion, because they deal with different groups of phenomena.

This is the truth, but not quite all the truth. To think intelligently on the matter we must strictly define the two words "know" and "believe." If we do not confuse these two terms we hellef or that despises all knowledge. Both are equally important. It is essential to know that two times two make four, and that prussic acid destroys life, for to be ignorant of such things is highly dangerous.

But it is just as essential to believe as it is to Love is the greatest thing in the world, but you can never know that another loves you; that is a sort of thing you believe, if you get it at all. You can never know that honesty is the best although your belief in it may be enough to govern your life.

All of the things that make for culture, for moral character, and for the general refinement of the human spirit, are things we have to believe if we are ever to use them; we cannot know them.

That is the reason the Bible says, "The just shall live by faith," which means that the just, or the better kind of people, are those who believe the great cosmic laws of righteousness. Religion, therefore, will always be present, for it has to do with a part of man that is just as permanent as his bodily appetites. Men will always hope, and wonder, and feel the sense right and wrong, and be impressed by the infinite and the mysterious, precisely as they will always eat, and drink, and feel heat and cold. There is no more conflict between religion and cience than there is a conflict between a man's love for his wife and children on the one hand and his daily work as a grocer or an engineer on the other hand. Speaking of engineers, what religion needs is the engineering mind. The engineer does not argue about what electricity is, nor what causes it, nor where it goes to; he is concerned mainly with how to use it. So all those ideas that pertain to religion are here, they are a permanent demonstrable part of the human race, and the main necessity is to learn how to use them for the welfare of humanity and not to argue where they come from nor upon what authority they

To suppose that science will eventually destroy religion is as absurd as to suppose that the people on this little planet will eventually do away with the rest of the universe. Carlyle used a happy expression when he spoke

THE RIGHT WORD BY W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUERIES "Couple" Was or Were? Mrs. Ann Clyde Watson, Trenton, S. C.: "Will you kindly publish in your column which of the following expressions is correct: 'The old couple were very lonely'; 'The old couple was very lonely'? Also, is it correct to say, 'The Rev. Mr. Smith'?'' Answer: "The old couple were very lonely" is correct. It is correct to address a minister, let us say, of the Methodist church, as The Reverend Frank H. Smith.

Salutation and "Either" Miss Rhoda Mulser, Oakland, Calif.: "If you had only the surname and initials of a person to whom you had to write, what salutation would you use in view of the indefinte information?

I often hear the word either used in this way, but it is my impression that either means one of two things. If my impression is correct, then would not each be the word to use? Answer: If I did not know the sex of a writer would salute him as "Dear Sir.". If you desire to would salute him as "Dear Sir.". General rules are dangerous. Somebody said one time that there was nothing as useless as a general aphorism.

There is a good deal of truth in that. A general aphorism says silence is golden That may be true.

But how about the platform orator and the minister and the Chautaugua speaker? Silence would put them out of business.

So it may be a good thing sometimes that there is a Boss.

For without Bosses to plan and think and direct, many workers would be idle. It is not given to all of us to direct. Most of us have to take orders and exe-

All this is flubdub, because it is guesswork and nothing else. By the law of coincidences, occasionally the guesser will hit somewhere near the truth, after which he devotes considerable space to crowing about it.

England's election realted in the triumph of one lonely communist. The poor fellow will have to flock by himself, and hardly may expect to be an element in proceedings. The poor showing of the communist faction indicates that if ever it possessed vitality, something has sapped the same fatally.

The death of a woman in New York is ascribed to sheer fright at the crowd and tumult. She was a simple peasant, on her way to visit her native land. It happened that she became separated from her husband, a train guard having slammed the gate between them. The last look he saw on her face was one of utter terror, and next How Chile's death-dealing From what is known of the Hudson river valley was cre- had taken her. She had been subjected to no physical hurt.

> Los Angeles stands by the right of the mule to kick The council has decided that a man who gets in the vicinity of the creature's heels must take the consequences, and that he has no recourse, unless to return the kick. The mule was working for the city, and so was the man. This lent to the encounter a color of municipal interest, and possibly of responsibility. The man counted up his damages and asked to be recompensed to the amount of $8.25. This included the cost of repairs to his watch. But the council turned the bill down quite heartlessly. Some of the members even waxed curious as to the place in which the man had carried the watch and grew frivolous. And yet the kick of a mule may be a somber episode.

They are having a hard time to find jurges for the trial of the Herrin murder cases. These are cases based on the slaughter by miners of a group of imported workmen. The difficulty in relation to jurors is that the people of the region support the wholesale murders, and doubtless the people living in places more remote will be reluctant to oppose local opinion. There are prospects that the big five, constituting the principal meat packers, will be consolidated until three concerns have disappeared. This will leave but two, each doubtless to be devoted to the task of swallowing the other in good time.

Texas is said to have another band of disorderlies in addition to the ku klux. The two organizations seem to be based on ruffianism. If they can be set to fighting, perhaps there will be peace in Texas yet.

Bonar Law has so clear a majority in parliament that he will be able to put his policies to a working test, and if they fail, will be without chance at an alibi. Laborites were much disappointed after early returns which had put them far in the lead. George will be there, and if he does not turn out to be the nucleus of a respectable opposition, will be judged to have lost some of

BY JOHN PILGRIM-

For my sins I travel on railroad trains every now and then, No better place in which to see strange things and people. The smoking room of a Pullman is the finest confessional in the world. Men you never saw before and may never see again tell their life stories with a startling abandon. "I was a thief once," said one man yesterday. "Now I'm

Later on he gave me his card, and unless it and he lies he is the president of a nice little bank in a nice little western town: He said that he was a clerk in another man's bank when one day he found a package of bills.

No name, mind you," he said. "No indication of ownership So I just held 'em."

He did not search for the owner, on the wise principle that the owner would be apt to search for the bills. But six months went on and there were no inquiries about the money. He had the package put away in his safe deposit box. One day the president of the bank said, abruptly:

"What did you do with that bundle of money you found?"

"What bundle?" the boy asked in reply.

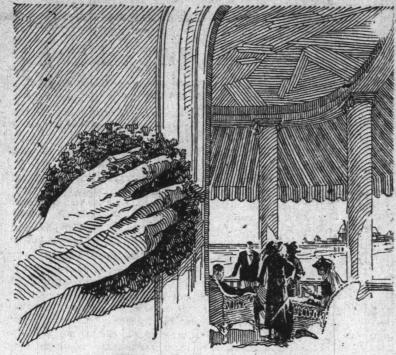

He stood pat on that. It developed that the president suspected that a clerk in his bank might have found that bundle of money, because of certain circumstances connected with its loss, but he did not know. He had asked each clerk the same question. But when the kid put himself through a series of inner questionings, he recognized that he was actually a thief. His intentions had been honest at the start, but the possession of that un-own money had warped him.

"I did not propose to be a thief in a bank," he said. "I had already seen what happens to thieves in banks. I hated to give that money up, but I advertised and found the owner and gave it to her."

Later on he married her, but that's another story. The moral as it appears to the banker, is that one's fiber is apt to weaken if one does not stiffen it whenever attacked.

"If I had gotten away with that roll," said he, "I honestly believe it would have forever ruined me."

than a week ago, and already half of the lots are sold. This wonderful piece of property is located between Glenwood Road and Kenneth Road, both of which will be paved boulevards in a few months, and directly on Allen Avenue, one of the main through streets from the floor of the valley

A very fortunate purchase from the estate of James O'Neill enables us to offer this property at prices way under its present value.

HOMESEEKERS! BUILDERS! INVESTORS!

Do not fail to investigate lots in Fairview, where you can buy with an initial investment of $25 cash and easy monthly payments.

With an unsurpassed view of mountains and valley, fine soil and drainage, in one of the best sections in Northwest Glendale, Fairview offers ideal homesites at prices and terms so low that they are within the reach of everybody.

As an investment Fairview lots are devoid of all speculation and possess visible qualifications for handsome profits that even the most skeptical cannot ignore.

Contracts are issued direct by the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. You take possession upon the first payment. Race restrictions, moderate building restrictions, temporary homes permitted until better ones can be built, if of neat construction and painted. Water, gas and electricity included. DON'T PAY RENT! START A HOME!

The first step is to get a lot in a desirable location where it will readily resell, whether improved or unimproved. Wonderful development is taking place in the Fairview section. Don't delay. Come today and let us show you this property. We predict that every lot in the 11th Unit will be sold within the

By HENRY L. PARRELL United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Pennsylvania recently turned what seemed to be a sure defeat by the Navy eleven into a brilliant victory by a spectacular showing in the second half. The change between a team that had been completely and decisively beaten in the first half and the team that came out in the second half and ran away from one of the best teams in the

The wand that brought about a magic transformation was said be a cutting remark and an inference by their coach, "Johnny Heisman, that they were yellow.

After the first half, Heisman, according to the story, went into the Penn clubhouse and had the following in effect to say to the

"I don't mind you losing, if you lose like men with your heads up. I've got a long contract and I'm going to tear it up tonight and leave you flat, if you don't fight in the next half." They went out and fought so much that they won and provided the biggest upset of the season.

Many stories are told of such scathing remarks made by coaches that worked heart and fight in a team, and many of them One told recently in New York concerned Tad Coy, one of the greatest of all Yale backs. Princeton, several years back, was leading at the first half 10 to 0 and the Yale eleven wasn't showing too much fight. They came out in the second half and rolled up twelve points for a victory. Nasty, cutting words from the coaches and charges that they lacked the courage of boys was regarded as the strategy that the Yale coaches worked between halves to get the team on its feet. Several years later Coy was asked what was said to them in the dressing-room and he replied: "Nothing that I know of. I was asleep."

In one of the big Eastern games this year, one of the teams that had been badly outplayed in the first half, came back in the second half and by almost superhuman efforts tied the score. 'You must have told them plenty between halves?" the coach of the eleven was asked after the game. "Didn't tell them a thing," he replied. "Wasn't even in the athletes to question their courage. If you are big enough to get away with it, it is good strategy. Two years ago Yale had a crew that was almost the joke of the East. Everyone took a turn in leaving the Blue boat lengths behind and it looked like Harvard could leave three men out of Crimson shell and win in their annual classic. Guy Nickalls, the British coach of Yale, resigned and made the rather sensational charges publicly that the crew was yellow and that he couldn't get results from weaklings. Another coach came, and in two weeks such a transformation came that the Yale eight went on the Thomas river, rowed the very heart out of Harvard, and won the race.

In one of the games of the 1921 world's series, Smith, a hardoiled young catcher of the Giants, was behind the plate when Bob Meusel, the Yank outfielder, came to the bat. "Go on back to the bench. You're yellow, You won't get around if you do get on," Smith said, following Rule 4 of the catchcode on getting a batter's goat. Words followed and Meusel poked out a single. He got around third, where Mike McNally was coaching.

"Go down and tell Smith I'm coming in on the next pitch."

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21.—The PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21.—The Portland Community Chest drive for 1923 is scheduled to open here November 25. The organization of the "army" which will head the drive, with the list of officers to handle the various working divisions has been perfected and announced, the amount needed proclaimed, and the institutions and charitable organizations which are to benefit listed.

The drive this year, which will be for funds to be used during the year of 1923, will be for a total of $648,529 or $200,000 less than the mount asked last year.
Forty one beneficiary organizations and institutions enjoy alloca-tions of substantial sums from the fund, The budget committee, which assays the needs of all those chariable bodies which draw their chief support from the chest, was headed J. C. Ainsworth, Portland

Among those to benefit from the drive are the Y. M. C. A., $70,000; American Jewish Relief, $45,000; Public Welfare Bureau, $51,000; Salcation Army, $30,000; Y. M. C. A. home work, $35,000; emergency fund, $38,000; Near East relief, $33,000; and the Catholic Charitable Societies, $38,000. Numerous others come in for smaller sums ranging from $500 to $25,000.

CORPORATIONS

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 21.—Plans were practically completed here today by state officials in an effort to aid the legitimate mining and oil industry of the state. This improvement is sought to be brought about by the addition to the staff of the State Corporation department of another experienced oil engineer and a mining expert.

L. C. Lyman, a graduate of Case School of Applied Science, and a practical mining engineer of many years' experience, was certified by the State Civil Service Commission and has accepted a position in Los Angeles, preparatory to taking charge of the mining applications in that section of the state. Wyman has also had much practical experience in Ventura county oil fields He has been in charge of mines in Northern Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Colorado and California.

"The addition of another oil engineer to the State Corporation Department's staff, with an assignment to work out of the San Francisco office, will follow the transfer of the department to the new state building," stated Corporation Commissioner E. M. Daugherty.

"The engineering staff in the San Francisco office has not heretofore included an oil engineer, as the number of applications of oil companies going through that office was comparatively small until the late part of the spring. The growth in the number of applications has been steady, but rapid. The engineering staff in San Francisco is heavily taxed at the present time. In justice to the oil industry and those interested in it in the northern part of the state, an expert should be attached to the San Francisco office as soon as the necessary space is available.

"Mining activities have been increasing quite steadily for some months. This important branch of the state's industry will receive the benefit of the increase in the personnel of the department's technical experts."

D. W. Minier, for several years in charge of the engineering branch of the Los Angeles office, severed his connection with the State Corporation Department. Temporarily, Walter D. Abel, assistant engineer of the San Francisco office, has assumed charge of the administration of the engineering department in the southern branch.

And we're alone, 'ist Pop and me. And 'en Pop rocks me in his lap, And rubs my head, 'ist soft and kind, And asks me if I'll take a nap If he pulls down the parlor blind.

And in a little while I fall Asleep, and he 'ist rocks, but he Don't never go to sleep at all, And we're alone, 'ist Pop and me.

EDITORIALS PEOPLE

Editor Glendale Daily Press. Dear Sir—Some days ago there was an ad in the Glendale papers that ten cents would be paid by the city high school for every cat brought in. As a direct consequence many of the citizens of this city have lost their pet cats, and loud complainings are heard in the land, both by the lovers of kids and

No, no school child is going to sacrifice their own pet for the sum of ten cents, but the pet of the other fellow, that's a different story, hence it is easy to see what the above offer has led to, viz:

PRESS-NEWTON HAS PROGRAM LONG TO BE REMEMBERED

Radio KFAC, the Press Newon radio station, radiated into the ether a program long to be remembered, Monday night. Miss Mae Anderson, violin-lst, is from Salt Lake, and represented the state of Utah at the World's fair at San Francisco in 1915. She won the first prize at the fair.

Miss Rachel Anderson, who plays the cello and sister of Miss Mae, and Prof. Hollingshead formed the balance of the trio.

Mr. Barton, baritone, sang three numbers. The Anderson sisters have opened a temporary studio at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Burton, 529 West Patterson, Glendale. They already have several pupils and are highly pleased with Glendale. They are considering opening a permanent studio here and making this their home as well. Radio fans who heard last evening's concert will vouch for their artistic ability.

IMMIGRATIO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 .- The National Council of Catholic Women, in session today for a fourday meeting, will devote much of its time to a discussion of immigration problems. Commissioner of Immigration Husband is down for the principal address.

Bruce M. Mohler, chairman, will tell what the National Catholic welfare Bureau is doing at the ports of New York, Philadelphia and Seattle. Other speakers will talk on welfare work among immigrants at Ellis Island and follow-up work in big industrial cities. Joseph I. Breen, who has just returned from Europe, where he spent a year making a thorough study of immigration problems, will make a report, recommending legislation for the council to support. Another international report will be made by Miss Mary C. Tinney of the New York City department of public welfare who represented the Catholic women's council at four international conferences in Europe Other subjects to be discussed at he convention are, "Women in Industry," "Social Legislation," and "The Place of Women in the pro-
